Peninsula Transit Project Launched

By BOB HEMINGWAY

A 15-month, $350,000 study of alternatives for upgrading public transit on the Peninsula was launched Friday at an organizational meeting of the board of control for the Peninsula Transit Alternatives Study Project in Redwood City.

The board of control, with membership from San Mateo, San Francisco and Santa Clara counties, was established by the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) as a result of legislation passed last year in Sacramento.

The legislation, SB 283, directs the MTC to conduct a study on alternative forms of transit development with the West Bay Corridor of the Bay Area, including an assessment of the economic and social impacts on transit-dependent groups of each of the alternatives considered.

It is directed that the study shall be focused on the feasibility of:

- Upgrading the Southern Pacific's commuter service to a transit service level.
- Extending BART's service from Daly City to San Jose.
- Extending BART's service to San Francisco International Airport and upgrading the SP service from Millbrae to San Jose.
- Implementing other transit alternatives.

The bill also provides for payment of $350,000 to MTC to conduct the study.

However, the transit alternatives listed by the board of control for study vary from the specifications of the bill — no major improvement, bus rapid transit, commuter rail service (upgraded), rail rapid transit (with BART not specified).

The bill requires that MTC submit a report by Jan. 1, 1977 to the State Legislature citing the cost comparison of the various transit alternatives studied, along with comments and recommendations.

Eric Mohr, project director for the study, asserted Friday at the organizational meeting that the state bill "does not automatically mean BART, perhaps a more modified rail system."

Joseph C. Houghteling, a member of the Bay Conservation and Development Commission and a member of the board of control, said he believed that SB 283 requires a study of BART extension.

John Beckett, chairman of MTC and one of Santa Clara County's members on the board of control, contended that the board needs a "legal review and analysis of SC 283 to determine exactly what is covered."

Mohn asserted that there are "many possible combinations and variations" of the transit alternatives the board of control proposes to study.

The benefits of a transit plan cannot be related in a strict sense of dollars, he said.

"We have to arrive at a reconciliation of goals among the three counties and many cities with their own individual plans," Mohn said.

One of the decision, he indicated, is whether a transit system should supplement the automobile and the freeways, or become the basic mode of transportation.

William H. Royer, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors' representative on the board of control, said the study "should give us information to make some final decisions."

The board of control's study will be assisted by a technical advisory committee and by a citizens advisory committee.

The technical advisory committee will consist of represenatatives of planning and engineering departments of all three counties, of the San Mateo and Santa Clara County transit districts, of the cities in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, of the Urban Mass Transit Agency, the State Department of Transportation, the State PUC, of Greyhound and Southern Pacific and of transportation departments at Santa Clara, San Jose State and Stanford universities.

Paul Bay, deputy executive director of MTC, was named chairman of the technical advisory committee Friday.

The board of control will solicit applications for members of the cizizens advisory committee.

Beckett, who was elected chairman of the board of control, said that a chairman of the citizens committee will be named by the board at its next meeting, Nov. 21.

Other members of the board, in addition to Beckett, Houghteling and Royer, are Jack D. Crowley, representing the mayor of San Francisco; John E. Dearman, representing the city and county of San Francisco; William R. Lawson, representing the cities of San Mateo County, and James Self, representing the cities of Santa Clara County.

Post Guilty of Murder

Richard Post was found guilty of second degree murder and kidnaping Friday in the strangulation slaying of 21-year-old Ruth Wilhelmsen of San Francisco last June 29 in Daly City.

The 28-year-old bearded defendant sat stoically next to his attorney, William Greenspan, as clerk Helen Powers read the verdicts of the Superior Court jury of seven men and five women shortly after 4 p.m. in the court of Judge Lyle R. Edson in Redwood City.

Judge William Lanam, who took the verdicts in the absence of Judge Edson, scheduled sentencing of Post for Nov. 7 at 9 a.m.

Second degree murder carries a penalty of from five years to life in state prison. The penalty for kidnaping is punishable by not less than one year nor more than 25 years in prison.

Prosecutor Jeff Bovarsky had sought a first degree murder conviction and the death penalty in the case.

The jury spent a total of eight hours in deliberation Thursday and Friday before announcing that it had reached a verdict.

Post, a San Bruno resident and a computer programmer for a San Francisco firm, was arrested July 6, the day after the body of Miss Wilhelmsen was found by a watershed keeper off Black Mountain Road near Hillsborough.

Jurors said, following the conclusion of the nine-day trial, that the main factors in reaching their verdicts were the testimony of 14-year-old Marty Severeid of Daly City and the time factor discrepancy between when Post said he left the firm where he was employed and the time the alarm system was turned back on.

Young Severeid was the only witness in the trial who could positively identify Post as the person seen struggling with Miss Wilhelmsen and forcing her into a car in the parking lot of the Serramonte Shopping Center on the afternoon of June 29.

Miss Wilhelmsen, a San Francisco State University student, was employed as a clerk in the Macy's store at the shopping center.

"We believed Marty," said the jury foreman, William P. Brister.

Brister stated that the jury throughout its deliberations agreed on the evidence.

RICHARD POST

Another juror told Bovarsky that the jury also gave considerable weight to the factor that Post, who had turned off the alarm system when he arrived at Seamen Security Funds at 4:58 p.m., June 29, a Sunday, to do some programming, had said he left the firm about dusk, although the security firm recording of re-setting of the alarm was not until 12:48 a.m. the next day.

Juror Milburn Fountain said the jury felt it could not find that Post had been waiting for the victim at the shopping center.

Bovarsky had stated during his closing argument before the jury that such a finding would warrant a first degree murder conviction on the theory of premeditation.

"We thought this thing just happened," Fountain said.

Fountain agreed with Brister that the jury rated the credibility of the Severeid youth's testimony above that of Post.

"Other witnesses were supportive of Marty's testimony," the juror said.

Jurors said they took a total of 10 ballots on various aspects of the case before reaching the second degree verdict.

Friday's verdict concluded the second of five murder cases which were in trial in San Mateo County courts this week.

On Thursday, a jury convicted Mrs. Helen Valencia of first degree murder in the shooting slaying of her former husband, Ruben Mendoza, last March 1 in her Daly City home.

Still in trial are the cases of Lawrence T. Hall and Russell Wise accused of the shooting death of San Carlos quarry owner C. J. "Jack" Wood last Feb. 7, of Donald C. Wimberly, accused of the slaying of Michael Ralston of San Carlos last May 28, and of Hershel Tuey of East Palo Alto, charged with the blunt instrument death of Marie Schulz of Redwood City last April.

No Leads in DC Slaying

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Daly City police still have no leads in the execution-style slaying of a Daly City couple inside their home last week.

The bodies of Philip and Sherry Beadles were found by the couple's 14-year-old son as he prepared to leave to deliver newspapers Friday morning.

Investigators said the couple apparently had been slain during the night in the Nelson Court home's rumpus room while their four children slept a short distance away.

To date three teams of Daly City detectives have interviewed some 50 persons in connection with the crime.

The Beadles were members of a "couples club" and a book containing names and addresses of some 80 persons was found inside the room.

Beyond the book, there are no clues to the bloody murders, Chief David Hansen said.

"We have not developed a motive as of now," Hansen said.

Further investigation of the incident disclosed that both victims had been shot with a large caliber weapon at close range.

First reports indicated that Mrs. Beadles might have been killed by a blow to the head with an ax. But this theory has been rejected.

"There were no signs of forced entry into the home.

However, the front door was found slightly ajar when the children awoke Friday morning.

The son told police he thought he heard "a crash" about 2:30 a.m.

When there was no further noise, he went back to sleep.

Three Vie for Seat on Council

Three persons are vying for a seat on the Colma City Council vacated by the resignation of longtime Councilman Earl Taylor.

Taylor cited health reasons for forcing his retirement earlier this year.

His post would have expired in March 1976 — four months from now.

Candidates are Albert Belli, retired, Elsie Campbell, housewife; and, Phillip D. C'de Baca, manager Pet's Rest Cemetery; and a son-in-law of Taylor.

The successful candidate will again have to run for office in March.

Resignation of long-time City Treasurer Mary Ryan, who moved out of Colma in August, created a vacancy which will also be on the Nov. 4 ballot.

Mario Artau, a local businessman and teamster, will oppose Earl Taylor for the seat.

14 Firms Consulted

The City of Daly City has asked 14 consultant firms to propose methods and approaches to revise its general plan.

"The General Plan sets the city's policies for physical, social, economic and environmental development," City Manager David R. Rowe said.

Rowe said "the present plan was not adequately up to date to be a fully useful document to guide city development."

State law requires general law cities and counties to have land use, circulation, housing, conservation, open space, seismic safety, noise and scenic highway elements.

First Year ESAA Evaluation Shows 'Unrealistic Goals'

By JANET PARKER

The first year of a federally funded $774,000 program in the Jefferson Elementary School District failed to meet expectations in math. reading and counseling aspects.

Unrealistic goals, however, were cited as the problem by the program's evaluator, Dr. Chris Westphal.

The Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) was designed to eliminate minority group segregation and isolation in elementary and secondary schools.

The JESD is in its second year of funding of that program.

The release of the 1974-75 program evaluation was the first official document reviewing the successes and failures of that program's first year.

"THE OBJECTIVES were really unreasonable," Westphal said. "Objectives are quite different this year in terms of reality."

The objectives for the first year of ESAA were written under supervision of former ESAA Director Tom Parsons.

The evaluation has been submitted to the federal Office of Education which has final jurisdiction over ESAA funding.

Westphal said, however, that each year of ESAA is evaluated independebtly of previous years. Any problems or inadequacies in the first year of funding should have no bearing on the future of the program.

This year, JESD received $716,000 for its ESAA program.

In its first year of funding, ESAA was comprised of components on reading, math, counseling, educational development center and bilingual program.

"We definitely did show growth," Westphal said.

Typically, he said, JESD children in grades first through third do well, and those in ESAA did better than the district average.

Ten schools are involved in the ESAA program.

They are Colma Intermediate, Christopher Columbus, John F. Kennedy, Westlake, M. Pauline Brown, George Washington, Thomas Edison, Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln, and Olympia.

Also involved were three non-public schools, Our Lady Perpetual Help, Holy Angels and Our Lady of Mercy.

Pair Arrested After Shootout

A Millbrae man and his female companion, wanted in connection with the holdup of a South San Francisco liquor store and subsequent shootout with police in that city Sunday, were apprehended by police this morning in Daly City.

Law enforcement officers from South San Francisco and Daly City, aided by a Sheriff's Office helicopter and a lone police dog, found Bruce A. Carantzalis, 25, of 1285 Tuolumne St., Millbrae, hiding under a parked car inside an apartment house garage about 4:30 a.m. today.

He had been wounded by shotgun pellets fired from a 12-gauge shotgun during an encounter with police outside Al's Liquors, 479 Grand Ave., South San Francisco, officials said.

His injuries were described as "not serious" by authorities.

Carantzalis' companion, Patty Patti Pineda, 28, of 170 Carmel St., Pacifica, was discovered under another parked car on Hanover Street, shortly after midnight by Daly City Police Officer George Quinn.

Here's how police reconstructed the hours-long episode that led to Carantzalis' arrest on robbery charges:

At about 10 p.m., a man walked into Al's Liquors armed with an automatic handgun and ordered the night clerk to hand over all the money.

A silent burglar alarm was

Police Probe D.C. Stabbing

A Daly City wife stabbed her husband in the back with an ice pick during a family argument at the couple's home at 98 Menlo Avenue Sunday night at 10:30 p.m.

Arrested for assault with a deadly weapon was Helene Plevin, 25. Her husband, Michael, 25, was treated at Mary's Help Hospital for a minor shoulder wound, police said.

Council Meet

The City of Daly City City Council will hold its regular meeting Thursday starting at 8 p.m. in the City Hall Council Chambers.

Postponement of the meeting from its regular Monday night schedule was due to the League of California Cities meeting being held in San Francisco, a spokesman said.

LYCETT MEMORIAL

Sculptor Anthony Stellon poses with his bronze likeness of the late Bernard J. "Bud" Lycett which will be installed at the Daly City Civic Center. The bust of the longtime city councilman and former mayor was donated by his friends. Dedication ceremonies are scheduled for Oct. 30 at 4:30 p.m. inside the Civic Center lobby. The public may attend.

Silver Resigns as DC Library Board Trustee

Richard Silver, a Daly City Library Board trustee for the past five years, this week resigned from the board.

While offering to assist the city, "should my services ever be needed," Silver did not indicate why he decided to submit his resignation at this time.

Observers surmised Silver's resignation confirms rumors that he will seek election to the City Council in the March 1976 general election.

Two seats will be contested at that time — those held by Councilmen Paul Hupf and Anthony Giammona.

Silver joined the Library Board in 1970, on the threshhold of its expansionary period.

RICHARD SILVER

In 1973 the Bayshore Library was remodeled and expanded to more than twice its original size to accommodate increased use by residents.

At the urging of the Library Board, the City Council, in 1974, appropriated funds to construct a new library in the original Daly City area to replace the outdated and crowded John Daly Library.

Plans call for construction to start next year.

Silver also participated in construction of the Serramonte Library at Gellert Park. Plans for this facility were launched in 1970.

It was also during Silver's tenure on the board that a "Library for the Blind" was inaugurated with the help of the "Friends of the Library" citizens group.

In 1972 Silver was elected president of the Library Board. He served in this capacity until 1973.

5 Candidates in Police District

There are five candidates entered in the upcoming Nov. 4 Broadmoor Police District commission elections.

All have voiced opposition to annexation to Daly City — considered a key issue in the campaign.

Dean Davenport, Roswell Hilton, Charles Phillips, J. Wayne Johnson and Peter McMillan have entered the race for two vacant posts on the commission created by the decision of commissioners Vince Murphy and Louis Manis not to seek reelection.

Davenport, a private investigator, is a former Newark police officer with an A.A. degree in criminology.

McMillan is former president of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association and currently is a programmer supervisor at the C&H Sugar Company.

Johnson is a telephone installer, while Phillips, is an ex-military man who served with the Special Forces.

Hilton said he is a life-long resident of Broadmoor.

There are also three candidates vying for two seats on the Colma Fire District commission.

Leslie Balestra, Kenneth Lowe and Theodore Kirschner are candidates in the race.

Balestra is an incumbent seeking reelection.

A vacancy on the commission was created on the retirement of Attilio Conserva for health reasons.

Conserva had served on the commission for some 50 years.

DC Man Beaten

An elderly Daly City man remained in serious condition Monday at Mary's Help Hospital after he was allegedly knocked to the ground and kicked during an apparent robbery attempt Saturday.

The victim, Richard Jee, 61, of Rio Verde Ave., Daly City suffered internal injuries and severe lacerations during the beating, police said.

Both the victim and his wife, Puen, 58, were walking near the corner of Acacia and Geneva about 9:30 a.m. when they were allegedly accosted by Benny Harris, 31, of 366 Acacia Ave., police said.

Police said Harris knocked both Jee and his wife to the ground and began kicking the husband.

Officer Mike Sousa, of the Peninsula Humane Society, saw the incident and radioed police.

Within minutes police were on the scene and arrested Harris, charging him with assault with a deadly weapon.

READY TO GO

Planning for Daly City Community for Children's Services child care center is in its last stages. Last week, Mayor Victor Kyriakis (seated) signed an agreement with the organization enabling the group to begin its work. At the signing were (from left) Rhina Gonzalez, Nemer Gonzalez, President Juan Escobar, Dorothy Howard, Daniel Solorzano, the Rev. Ray Howard and Councilman Anthony Giammona. The center will provide care for 15 pre-school children from 7 a.m.-6 p.m. and for 15 school age children part-time from 3-6 p.m.

Grand National Opens Friday

The Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show and Livestock Exposition — a spectacular 2½-hour arena show combining big league rodeo action, elegant horse show competition, "Saga of the West," a capsule history of the Old West complete with buffalo, Texas longhorn steers and a spectacular chuck wagon wreck, and thousands of the finest livestock in the United States — opens its 31st annual engagement at the San Francisco Cow Palace Friday evening.

The Grand National will continue through Nov. 2, with arena shows scheduled every night at 8 p.m., Sundays at 7 p.m., plus Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m.

Opening night ceremonies include more than 40 mounted color guard teams from throughout the state, comprised of 200 flag-bearing horsemen, plus the presentation of Miss Grand National 1975, who will serve as official hostess during the 10-day show.

Called the "biggest and most colorful western show held anywhere in the nation," the family show has many highlights:

- More than 600 of the United States and Canada's finest professional cowboys will compete for more than $90,000 in prize money. Included are all of the top 10 ranked cowboys in the nation, and the Grand National, the final rodeo of the regular season, will feature a close battle for the world's all-around title between Leo Camarillo of Oakdale, Tom Ferguson of Miami, Okla. (1974 champion), and six-time world's title-holder Larry Mahan of Dallas, Tex. The Grand National will go a long way toward deciding the 1975 world's champion.

World-class competition is scheduled in bareback riding, saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling, Brahma bull riding, calf roping, and team roping, plus girls' barrel racing. Each arena show features seven rodeo events.

- Horse Show — For the first time, the Grand National will present three $10,000 events, probably the only horse show in the nation with three such events. These are $10,000 Grand Prix Reined Cow Horse Classic, $10,000 Grand Prix Hunter Classic, and $10,000 World Championship Jumper Sweepstakes.

The Grand National Horse Show, the largest horse show west of the Mississippi, features more than 1,500 horses (including Arabians, Appaloosas, Tennessee Walking Horses, Quarter Horses, Harness Ponies, Cutting Horses, Harness Horses, Hackney Ponies, Hackamores, Quarter Horses, Stock Horses, Saddle Horses, and many others), in 177 classes, competing for $132,000 in prize money. Four or five elegant horse show classes — including one jumping class — are scheduled at each arena show.

- Special Events — Included is "Saga of the West," an action-packed production, trick riders Jimmy Medearis, Bonnie Happy and Danelle Connelly and famed rodeo clown Wilbur Plaugher.
- Livestock Exposition — More than 20 states plus Canada will be represented by more than 3,000 of the finest quality livestock in North America. The exposition will provide a showcase for champion cattle, sheep and swine — with breeds ranging from the familiar to many unheard of my the general public.

Tickets are priced from $2.50 to $6.50, and now are on sale at the Cow Palace (344-4852), all Macy's offices, all Ticketron and BASS outlets and all major ticket agencies in the Bay Area.

ESAA

Westphal said the most growth in reading was shown in lower grade levels.

ON THE AVERAGE, one month's growth in reading was attained for each month of instruction.

Black and Latino students, however fell below the norm for schools surveyed at all grade levels, according to the report.

"This is again supportive of the need for programmatic changes for these students," the report indicated.

Follow-up studies are planned to determine the best learning styles and approaches for JESD Black and Latino children, the report said.

The unsuccessful reading objectives which included:

- by June 1975, 80 per cent of pupils in first, second and third grade would be reading at or above grade level as measured on state mandated standardized tests.
- by June 1975, 70 per cent of 600 fourth through eighth grade students would show a reading achievement gain of 14 months.

Westphal said the latter goal would necessitate two months growth in reading for each month of instruction.

THE ESAA MATH achievement scores were above national norms at all grade levels with the exception of seventh grade.

The ESAA program failed in its goal that 78 per cent of first, second and third grade children would attain a math achievement score no lower than grade level minus two months.

It did succeed, however, in its goal for 90 per cent of ESAA kindergarten children to recognize cardinal number property of sets, count to 10 and add component parts of the first 10 natural numbers.

Other math objectives were not measureable because a pre-testing information was unavailable.

The report also indicated that none of the counseling objectives were attained although positive trends were noted.

The unsuccessful goals included:

- an observeable increase in student motivation by June 1975.
- an observeable decrease in minority group isolation, interracial hostilities and discipline referrals as measured by principal's surveys, referral records and teacher's surveys.

Positive trends in counseling included a 2 per cent increase in student motivation as indicated by a student questionnaire, and reports by principals and school secretaries of some decrease in minority group isolation and interracial hostilities.

In other objectives, the educational development center opened in February as proposed and the bilingual program for Spanish and Tagalog speaking children was implemented on schedule.

Improvements were made all the way through the ESAA program this year, Westphal said.

THE ESAA STAFF also is revising its original proposal for a $1.7 million program to fit the capabilities of the funding received — only $716,000 this year.

The approved funding essentially cut the original plans for ESAA this year in half, Westphal said.

The evaluator also said the district is in the process of hiring an outside individual to evaluate the program this year due to Westphal's increased responsibilities.

"We have been going back through our original proposal and taking a critical look at what we want accomplished," Westphal said.

"We can't be expected to do what we originally intended," he said.

In its first year of funding, such an appraisal was not carried out, he said.

This year's ESAA program will be based on different components — multicultural, academic experience, bilingual, guidance, parent-community involvement and staff development.

He said the guidance program has been "tightened" in order to allow for a built in measure of school climate.

Westphal said he did not know what the Office of Education will do with his 50 page document.

The evaluation, however, is a requirement of the federally funded program.

Calling the Coroner: Seven Numbers Later

Had any trouble getting through to your public officials lately?

If the answer is "no," you should enjoy the experience of trying to contact the San Mateo County Coroner.

A letter to the Daly City Police Department, dated Oct. 15, 1975, concerning billings for certain laboratory tests prompted this newspaper to call the Coroner's Office.

The letterhead indicated the number to reach Coroner Paul B. Jensen was FI1-1361.

A telephone operator came on the line and told how that number had been disconnected and the new number was 573-2222.

This was Chope Hospital where a coroner's office is located. But not the one that answered such questions.

The number to call was 364-2054, or, failing to reach that line, perhaps 364-2024 might assist.

Again, wrong office.

The person to contact was at 364-5600, the caller was informed.

At 364-5600 (the county switchboard), the call was immediately routed to an office somewhere in the vast concrete government center.

No luck.

The number that should be used to reach the coroner was 573-3555 or 573-3780.

The coroner would be more than happy to answer the question on the billing. He was indeed the person to talk to on this. And the number was indeed the right one a secretary said.

But, sorry, he wasn't in his office yet!

triggered and South San Francisco Police Officer Tom McLaughlin was the first to arrive.

As he approached the store, he saw a man running out and ordered him to halt.

Instead, the man whirled around and McLaughlin spotted the gun in his hand.

The officer fired a blast from his shotgun, shattering several windows in the car.

The man jumped into the waiting car and began to speed away. McLaughlin fired a second time before pursuing him in his own patrol car.

Meanwhile other South San Francisco units and Daly City police were alerted to the robbery and the fact the suspect car was heading toward Daly City.

Officers succeeded in stopping the car on Hanover Street, but the two occupants fled the scene on foot.

Shortly after, Miss Pineda was apprehended.

South San Francisco's police dog, "Roy," and his handler, Officer Art Himm, were called to the area to aid in the search for the alleged robber.

Shortly after 4 a.m., residents of the area, already awakened by the police, dog and helicopter search, saw a man entering a garage at 551 Templeton and called police.

"Without the aid and cooperation of these residents we might not have apprehended this person," a Daly City spokesman said.

Reports Out

Visitacion Associates, developer of the proposed Crocker Hills community adjacent to San Bruno Mountain, issued two reports Monday dealing with key aspects of the Crocker Hills proposal.

The first, titled "Crocker Hills — The Alternatives," provides a comprehensive benefit vs. cost comparison of the alternatives the San Mateo County Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors face in their upcoming vote on Crocker Hills.

The report concludes:

"Certainly there are both benefits and costs associated with each of the alternatives, but the financial and human benefits of building Crocker Hills — homes, jobs, vastly increased tax revenue, retail sales volume, plus the gift of improved parks and extensive open space — far outweigh the limited benefits of no project at all, especially in light of the potentially massive acquisition costs which might result if the proposal were rejected.

Estimates of the value of San Bruno Mountain and the Crocker Hills property adjacent to it exceed $30,000,000."

The second report issued today by Visitacion is a review — prepared by Economics Research Associates — of the financial effects of building Crocker Hills.

The major finding of that review is that development of Crocker Hills will be financially beneficial to San Mateo County and all the jurisdictions affected by the project.

Brunans Held on Warrants

Two young San Bruno men were arrested by Burlingame police Monday on warrants charging them with two counts of purse snatching.

Jimmie Ray Loveland, 22, 483 Oak Ave., was booked into city jail, and held in lieu of $1,500 bail.

The other suspect, age 16, was booked into Hillcrest Juvenile Hall.

Police say the accusations stem from incidents involving elderly women who have had their purses snatched from them recently as they walked along the 800 block on El Camino Real.

Officers said the two events with which the young men are charged, occurred Oct. 14, and 16, during the early afternoon.

In the Oct. 16 robbery, a young man was followed by witnesses, and by his victim, for several blocks, before eluding capture.

"Daly City will add social, economic, design and growth policies," Rowe said, "and specific steps to implement them."

Background studies, public meetings, survey research and citizen suggestions will occur over the next 12 month period Rowe said.

Parking Soon Near BART

Motorists soon will be able to buy a monthly lease permit from the City of Daly City for $11 to park within one block of the Bay Area Rapid Transit station on John Daly Boulevard.

The City Council has approved a recommendation of Asst. City Manager Steven Lowe asking a 50 cent a day fee, or $11 a month permit, be charged motorists at the city's new 250-stall parking lot off St. Charles Avenue.

Lease cost of the property is $14,400 annually.

Another $16,751 was spent by the city to improve the land for parking.

The city plans to sell only 245 permits — leaving five spaces open as a sort of "margin" for illegally parked cars.

Lowe said the number of spaces, times the amount of working days a year (248), will bring in $30,380 the first year.

If the lot continues to operate for a second year, the city would be able to recoup its entire expenditures, he said.

Meanwhile, BART has started construction on a multi-level parking lot west of the station, blocking off some 300 parking spaces.

Construction on this new structure will last for about a year, a BART spokesman said.

There will be a 50 cent fee charged at this new lot when it is opened, BART's Board of Directors agreed at a recent meeting.

Board Asks Slide Bypass

Again modifying its stand on a bypass for Devil's Slide on Cabrillo Highway, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday voted to recommend that when and if the project is undertaken that a "cut" be made to provide for four lanes.

However, the board stood by its recent recommendation that the bypass originally be a two-lane highway with passing lanes on upgrades.

The action came as the board debated a request of Coastside groups that it schedule a public hearing to reconsider its Sept. 2 decision to recommend a two-lane bypass of the narrow, winding route around Devil's Slide.

The board decided it would not hold a hearing after listening to comments from a number of persons, but did amend its recommendation to endorse a cut in the routing to provide for four lanes.

The vote on the change was four to one, with Supervisor John M. Ward opposed.

Ward stated that any construction in the future is indifinite, anyway, and that the decision on a two or four-lane cut "is way down the road." Furthermore, he said, the state Department of Transportation (Caltrans) will probably make the final decision.

Ward also said that to hold a separate hearing on an action the board has already taken would set a precedent.

"To take an action when a decision is not favorable to a certain group would open a whole range of questions on our actions," he stated.

Supervisor William H. Royer noted that nearly everyone is in agreement that the Devil's Slide route has to be corrected.

"The county must take action, even if it is matching funds," the supervisor stated. "We can't wait, letting Devil's Slide remain there 10 years in its present condition."

The state originally planned and funded for a four-lane bypass of Devil's Slide several years ago. However, conservationists favoring a two-lane bypass waged a successful court action challenging the proposal and funds subsequently were withdrawn. Now the state says it has no funds to build any kind of a bypass.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald broached the matching fund proposal, saying the county may have to instigate construction of the bypass with perhaps a $3 million contribution.

Several persons appeared before the board Tuesday to urge reconsideration of its endorsement of a two-lane bypass.

Parks Plan Supported

An innovative method of developing a new parks and recreation sub-element to the San Mateo County general plan through assistance of an advisory committee received the endorsement of the county's planning and parks and recreation commissions last Wednesday.

County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe termed the new approach an "experiment."

The usual procedure in developing elements to the general plan is to begin with a work program, the planning director said.

"Now," he stated, "we want an abstract concept before we begin a work program."

County Parks and Recreation Director John T. Brook Jr., who developed the new proposal with Woolfe, termed it a "practical and reasonable approach to the intricate planning process we're working on."

In their recommendation, Woolfe and Brook proposed appointing a citizens advisory committee which would "serve to keep staff fingers on the pulse of community values during the course of the study."

The two department heads proposed a committee of 15 members representing the public, conservation organizations and other special interest groups. The commission increased the membership to 18 persons, adding positions representative of senior citizens, young persons and minority groups.

Planning Commission Chairman Fred Cohen requested that the first object of the planning program be to "inventory of what we have and the use it is getting."

Woolfe said that is one of the first things planned in preparation of the new element.

The commissions agreed, also, to a suggestion by Alfred Schmidt, chairman of the Peninsula Regional Group of the Sierra Club, that the study attempt to find out why persons don't use the county's parks and recreation facilities, and what it would take to encourage such use.

Review of the parks and recreation element will be "thorough and substantive," Woolfe said, and will include an in-depth reappraisal of existing policies in terms of a formula between acquisition of new parks and development of existing parks.

The study, Woolfe predicted, will take approximately one year to complete.

New Millbrae Administrator

Millbrae has hired a new assistant city administrator to replace Doug Dawson, who resigned five months ago.

William A. Houston, currently assistant city manager in Simi Valley, California, is scheduled to assume his duties in Millbrae on Oct. 20.

Pacifica Corp. Yard Bid OKd

Pacifica council members Tuesday night unanimously voted to hire the architectural firm of John Carl Warnecke and Associates to design that city's new corporation yard despite a last minute attempt by George Pagni of Albert R. Seyranian and Associates to change their mind.

Both firms had submitted written two-phase proposals and, according to City Manager Don Weidner, there was a "closeness in cost and (other) similarities" in the proposals. And both were based on an established architectural scale related to construction costs.

Pagni, however, contended that his firm had under bid Warnecke by $8,000 because that figure (cited by both firms as the cost of phase one) would be included in the total final fee by Seyranian, which to Pagni, didn't appear to be the case with the Warnecke proposal.

"Frankly, I really do not like the sounds of what I'm hearing," said Weidner, who told the council this was not pointed out in Seyranian's written proposal and he cautioned the council from "making a decision based on these extemporaneous remarks" by Pagni.

Pagni, who said his reading of the Warnecke proposal indicated there were two parts to phase one, told the council it was an oversight on the part of his firm in not pointing out that the phase one fee is included in the total fee.

Weidner said it was not the staff's impression that the Seyranian proposal was $8,000 cheaper. He said if it were a case of "being offered a bargain" the staff would want to discuss the issue further with the architect. "We also might want to offer the (further discussion) opportunity to the other firm," said Weidner.

"If there was to be a clarification, that clarification should have been done in writing," said Weidner, who had reported to the council that it had been difficult to make a decision because both proposals were competitive in terms of services and costs.

Warnecke recently was retained by the city to study feasibility of a civic center complex.

Seyranian has been working with the city on the construction of a new fire station in the city's Linda Mar area.

Under the Warnecke proposal, construction of the new corporation yard on an approximate five acre Sharp Park School site could be completed by Aug. 1, 1976, assuming all necessary phase one approvals have been secured by a target date of Nov. 1.

The city is required to move to new facilities because the waste water treatment plant site where it's now located will be upgraded to a second stage sewage plant.

Warnecke proposes to start construction by Feb. 1, 1976 but not later than March 1, 1976. While the new facility is needed by May 1976, a time extension of from 30 to 90 days can be secured.

As part of their proposal, Warnecke intends to solicit involvement and support from all affected or concerned groups, as well as shepherding the entire project through all governmental bodies including the State Coastal Commission.

Cities Take Opposite Sides Again

In the wake of the California Department of Transportation's (Caltrans) announced plans to eliminate the proposed extension of Route 380 from San Bruno to Pacifica, those two north county cities, without knowing it, last Tuesday again took opposite sides on the controversial issue.

While the San Bruno City Council voted unanimously to support the so-called "Unadoption" of the plan, the Pacifica Council voted 3-2 to seek postponement of action by Caltrans pending the outcome of a public vote on the issue by Pacificans.

Caltrans intends to recommend to the State Highway Commission at a meeting in San Bernardino Nov. 20 that the proposed route be eliminated because it cannot be funded within the next 20 years.

San Bruno's council authorized Councilman Gary Mondfrans, a long-time opponent of the east-west lateral, to attend the San Bernardino meeting in support of the proposed recommendation to abandon the project.

In Pacifica, meanwhile, the council split 3-2 to authorize official attendance, although no one was specifically named, and, with the same 3-2 split, to place the issue on the March ballot.

Pacifica Mayor Stan Farber and Council members Aubrey Lumley and Grace McCarthy voted in the majority. As in the past, Council members Janice Fulford and Sid Lorvan voted against retention of the roadway and the decision to put it to a vote.

Mrs. Fulford said she intends to appear at the Nov. 20 meeting "in opposition to 380" at her own expense as a member of the 380 Disaster Relief Committee.

San Bruno Mayor John Barnard initially expressed concern that if it was decided the freeway would be built, then the state would be forced to sell the right-of-way it now holds and the land might be purchased by developers.

A similar concern "to retain an east-west corridor" was expressed by the council majority in Pacifica.

"They (the state) paid a bundle for that land and I'm concerned that a developer may pick it up," said Barnard. "I would hate to have to fight developers coming before us every six months asking to build apartments or low-cost housing on that land."

Elie Larsen of the San Bruno Environmental Committee, which has been researching the issue, said that according to law the state must advertise sale of its right-of-way within 90 days after it has been decided such right-of-way will not be used.

An eight-week class in Holiday Crafts — teaching construction of Christmas candles, wreaths and tree and table decorations of natural materials — will begin next Thursday, Oct. 23 at the Crystal Springs Terrace Apartments, San Bruno.

Sponsored by the San Mateo Union High School District Adult School, the classes will be held weekly from 8 to 10 p.m., with a $3 course fee and $3 lab fee charged.

Taught by Kathleen Ventrello, the classes will be held in the Crystal Springs Terrace clubhouse at 2000 Crystal Springs Terrace Road, San Bruno. Information is available at the Adult School.

Beer Sales Up Slightly In the State

SAN FRANCISCO — Beer sales in California during the first nine months of 1975 were up slightly over their record-breaking pace of a year ago.

George W. Ososke, vice president and Western District director of the United States Brewers Assn., said this week that beer consumption during the nine months was estimated at 11,750,000 barrels, compared to 11,566,000 in 1974.

This means, he said, that consumers poured $105,750,000 into the federal treasury because of the $9 per barrel excise tax. The state excise tax of $1.24 per barrel cost consumers an additional $14,570,000.

California leads all states in beer consumption, and Ososke said the full 1975 total is expected to exceed 15 million barrels for the first time.

Combine ingredients in a saucepan and stir. Cook over medium heat, stirring until sauce thickens and becomes clear.

Turkey Meat Rounds:

1 lb. ground turkey (raw)
2 Tbsp. non-fat milk
¼ cup "Eggbeaters"
1 slice bread, crumbled
1 5 or 6 oz. can water chestnuts, finely chopped
1 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
¼ cup minced onions
¾ tsp. salt
dash of pepper
Note: Bake at 275°.

You may add a pinch of garlic salt, dry mustard, celery salt or thyme if you desire. Mix all ingredients together and shape into small balls. They may be baked by arranging in a single layer and bake, uncovered, for about 15 minutes; turn once during baking time. They may also be browned in oil in a frying pan. After browning, cover and simmer for about 20 minutes. After either method of cooking, meat balls are then placed in a chafing dish with the sweet and sour sauce. Serve with picks. Yield: 32 small balls.

Westmoor Band in Parade

The Westmoor High School Marching Unit participated Saturday, in the annual Broadmoor Property Owners' Association parade and carnival.

The 70 piece marching unit showed off new uniforms.

Following Westmoor tradition, the band uniforms are white on green with silver accents.

Marching Band members white fur hats trimmed with green braid.

High stepping Steve Stanley led the march down 87th Street to the Broadmoor Community Center.

Stanley spent two summers at a drum major training camp. Not only does he participate with the marching band, but, he also is the lead trumpet in the Westmoor Stage Band.

Helping the band look sharp this year are Westmoor majorettes Paula Boyer, Karen Carrier, Audrey Grosch, Deidre Kilkery and Terry Simcox.

These girls have been training for two years with Mrs. Carol Cranen.

Mrs. Cranen instructs baton for the Daly City Recreation Department.

Not to be forgotten are the band letter girls who march in front of the band.

Lisa Carrell, Denise Dovell, Susan Erford, Gail Hernandez, Antionette Labruzza, Lynda Sargent, Jessie St. Pierre, Karen Thomas and Jean Torres carry the letters WESTMOOR.

Westmoor's Marching Band received an invitation to return to Disneyland in May to participate in Disneyland's 1976 Bicentennial celebration. Westmoor performed for the first time in "American on Parade" in 1974.

Westmoor's musicians are directed by Howard Loeffler.

Creek Pollution Blamed on SSF and San Bruno

The California Regional Water Quality Control Board has advised the cities of San Bruno, and South San Francisco and a private company that they are polluting Colma Creek San Bruno Canal and San Francisco Bay

The cities and the private firm, Tillo Products Co., have been ordered to "cleanup and abate" conditions causing the pollution or face criminal or civil action.

In a letter to both city councils, Fred Dierker, quality control board executive director, said inspection of the sludge disposal and composting operation adjacent to the South San Francisco and San Bruno sewage treatment plant operated by Tillo Products indicates sewage sludge and compost materials are causing pollution of state waters.

South San Francisco owns 70 per cent of the sewage treatment plant, located off Belle Air Road east of Highway 101. The city also operates the plant. San Bruno owns the other 30 per cent.

The problem, however, does not exist at the plant itself, but in area near the plant where Tillo Products blends sewage sludge with rice hulls and other materials to form a soil conditioner. The firm operates under an agreement with South San Franicsco and San Bruno.

According to findings by the Water Quality Control Board:

• Tillo products has negligently or intentionally stockpiled unprocessed rice hulls and other materials in such a manner as to limit the available capacity for digested sludge.

• An estimated 50,000 gallons per week or digested sludge currently is being pumped to the process area from the sewage treatment plant, resulting in overflow of perimeter dikes and discharge of sludge to Colma Creek, San Bruno Canal and San Francisco Bay, causing a condition of pollution to exist.

• Rice hulls are intentionally or negligently allowed to spill or are bulldozed over dikes into Colma Creek and San Bruno Canal, and also are airborne from the site by winds into Colma Creek, San Bruno Canal and the Bay. This is causing organic deposits along shorelines and unsightliness as a result of floating material over large areas of the Bay.

The Water Quality Control Board told the cities and Tillo Products they must correct the conditions causing the pollution by Dec. 15.

Control Board inspectors became interested in the sludge site when a fire started in the compost fields last June.

Social Service Fund Bids Nixed

South San Francisco councilmen Wednesday night denied requests for social service funds to three groups claiming it may set a precedent in a tight money era.

Councilman Terry Mirri said he may not have supported all requests but that he favored reviewing them on an individual basis for possible aid.

"Our city, typical of local governments throughout the nation, is experiencing financial difficulties as exhibited during the budget process," stated City Manager Ed Alario in a memo to the council recommending denial of all requests at this time.

Requests for funds were made by Friends to Teenage Parents, Damien Switchboards and Toward Utility Rate Normalization (TURN).

TURN, a consumer group fighting utility rate structures, represented by John O'Keefe, was seeking $750 to help defray expenses in aiding small consumers. Doug Wigton, representative of PG&E, opposed the contribution.

Representing Friends To Teenage Parents was Pat Cannen, who said his group was prepared to document that money it received would go to South San Franciscans. He was seeking $750 for a second year of operation. According to Cannon, the group aided 49 young parents last year.

Damien Switchboard, represented by Jan Zobel, was seeking $3,000. She said that the 5-year-old organization was in "precarious straights" financially and unless it received aid might be forced to close its doors. "It's important someone support this service," she said.

Mirri had made a motion in opposition to Alario's recommendation that funds be denied. It died for lack of a second.

Alario said many of these groups, while worthwhile, nonetheless often are overlapping in their services with similar organizations and it would be beneficial to all if they would consolidate.

Councilman Warren Steinkamp said the council's first obligation is to city employe wages. He said the council already has promised a cost of living increase for next year and he was concerned that the way the economy was going the city may be forced to lay off personnel.

WEATHER WILLING

Construction — Permanent portables are being constructed at Serramonte High School as part of the remodeling project there. Jefferson Union High School District Associate Supt. of Business, Bob Watt, said that "weather willing," the building will be ready for use at the beginning of the spring semester.

Field Test of License Plan

Immediate issuance of drivers licenses, complete with full-color photos, will be field-tested by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

DMV Director Herman Sillas announced that the process will be tested in the Hayward office to determine its feasibility and costs beginning April 5, 1976.

Motorists will be able to walk out of the Hayward DMV office with their new drivers license in hand within minutes after finishing the written exam, he said. Ordinarily, it would take about ten days for the new license to be mailed to the driver.

"We have the technical capability to perform the function now," Silas commented. "But there are a number of problems that must be resolved if we are to go into the program on a statewide basis."

The over-the-counter issuance of drivers licenses will be limited to renewals during the initial phase of the test.

A study of immediate issuance of motor vehicle documents was mandated by the legislature during the last session. A special DMV task force, directed by Dave Davis, Assistant Chief, Division of Electronic Data Processing Service, determined that drivers license renewals would provide the best pilot test. A simultaneous study is also being made on the feasibility of immediate issuance of registration documents.

The department is to submit a report on immediate issuance to the Governor and the Legislature by December 15.

"The problems we expect to face and resolve are numerous," Davis pointed out.

From Halloweens Past

Ghosts, goblins, witches and a horde of other horrific characters from Halloweens past descended on the house at 238 Myrtle Road in Burlingame Friday night to begin their annual stay at the Children's Health Home Auxiliary Haunted House. Those who dared enter the dimly lit rooms were confronted by Lizzie Borden, the Creature from the Black Lagoon, Broom-Hilda and others while strains of eerie music echoed through the cobwebed halls. In keeping with tradition, the ghoulish creatures will continue their spirited fun weekdays from 3 to 9 p.m., and weekends from noon to 9 p.m. through Halloween. Hours the final day will be 3 to 6 p.m. As in years past, proceeds from the Haunted House will benefit the Children's Health Home Training Facility for the Developmentally Disabled in San Mateo.

LIZZIE BORDEN TOOK AN AXE

Mrs. Stan Macey let out a shriek when Cathy Bowman began to portray Lizzie Borden's dastardly deed in the scene sponsored by the San Mateo Elks Lodge. Cathy's mother, Mrs. Jesse Bowman, is chairman of the 19th annual Haunted House.

Sue Weman Married

The garden of the La Playa Hotel in Carmel was the setting for the marriage of Sue Weman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Weman of Daly City, and Roger Southfield. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Southfield of Cypress.

The newlyweds honeymooned at Lake Tahoe before traveling to Cypress where they will make their first home.

For her wedding, Sue selected an Elizabethan style gown of ivory silk organza with cotton lace trim. The costume also featured long puff sleeves with ruffles, and lace trim on the skirt, and a floor length sash.

Sole attendant for her sister was Karin Jenkins of Rohnert Park, who wore a rust colored Qiana gown with beige cotton lace detailing.

Edward Southfield of Southern California was his brother's best man. Ring bearer duties were performed by Bryan Feenstra.

After the ceremony, the newlyweds were greeted with a shower of rose petals as they made their way to the garden room of the hotel where a reception was given.

The new Mrs. Southfield studied at El Camino and Burlingame High Schools and has been employed as a secretary. Her husband attended military school in Southern California.

The bridegroom also is the brother of Mrs. Linda Feenstra and Mrs. Susan Versteg, both of the Los Angeles area.

HEARTS OF WEST 'A DARLING FILM'

You may think it's the slowest film in the west. But you might also join me in thinking its one of the dearest films you've seen since maybe, "Paper Moon." May God strike me dead, but I'm about to call "Hearts of the West" a darling film.

Now that opinion is divided. Critics don't take a poll at the annual opening of the San Francisco Film Festival, the 19th that is now in session at the Palace of Fine Arts for 12 days running. But word gets around.

I adored it. I though it irresistable because it is unpretentious, uncomplicated, and chock full o'nuttiness.

There's absolutely nothing new in this saga of Hollywoood in the Thirties in the backstreets where they made cowboy flicks.

There isn't one heavy scene, one sequence where people are being despicable or mean. Sure, a lot of bad things happen to our hero (Jeff Bridges), but that's a part of growing up, something he needs to do and that's what we see happen. He almost gets killed, but he doesn't and that's one of the nice things that makes this affectionate picture of Hollywood's more innocent days so appealing. It's slow, it's clean and it's tinged with naivete. So what's bad about that?

Bridges plays a rube, a kid from Iowa who wants to write cowboy novels like his hero Zane Grey. In the first 10 minutes you think he might have a chance. But then he gets itchy feet and his wild imagination takes him West: to Nevada on a wild goose chase. That's where he meets the bad guys.

But like the true Western hero of his childhood, he triumphs and moves onward and Westward. Not without taking lumps, bumps and bruises.

Ah, well . . . our hero perseveres and becomes a minor movie star in "B" Westerns. He meets a girl (Blythe Danner), meets a cunning director (Alan Arkin), sees his idol crumble (Andy Griffith) and is rejected by an eccentric publisher (Donald Pleasance), But he never says "quit."

And so we sail with him, and his inspiring optimism, into the sunset of Sunset Boulevard where every man is a potential star, if not a king. And he rises above all the abuse and rides off into stardom, not on a horse but in an ambulance. And you're cheering him every inch of the way.

Heroes are classic figures. They don't necessarily steal the show. Alan Arkin, the harrassed director of a fly-by-night production company, Tumbleweed Pictures, is the one you come out of the theater chortling over and remembering what he said and did with relish.

"Hearts of the West" director Howard Zieff and scripter Rob Thompson are of the same mind.

YESTERYEAR RECALLED
Bary Woodruff and Abbey Evans were the featured dancers at the Centennial Grand Ball sponsored by the California Historical Society on Oct. 18 on the occasion of the Palace Hotel's 100th birthday. Twelve dancers from the Imogene Woodruff Dance Studio participated in the Charleston exhibition at the gala event.

Polly Sandkulla Quits Bruno Post

Polly Sandkulla submitted her resignation as chairwoman of the San Bruno Planning Commission to Mayor John Barnard last week.

Mrs. Sandkulla cited "time constraints" as the reason she stepped down from the commission.

She currently serves as chairwoman of the San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Commission. She has served on that commission for 2½ years.

Mrs. Sandkulla was a member of the San Bruno Planning Commission for two years. She had served as a San Bruno Park and Recreation commission for three years.

"Because of my responsibility to my family and other commitments, I just couldn't handle it," Mrs. Sandkulla said of her resignation from the commission.

"I loved working on the Planning Commission and enjoyed working with the community, but I don't have the necessary time to do as good a job as should be done," she said.

The council accepted Mrs. Sandkulla's resignation with regret.

Original Musical On Campus

That the American West has always been the most lyrical, open and free-spirited part of our country is the theme of an original play to be given at Canada College in celebration of the Bicentennial Year.

"West," a play with music, will be presented by the college's drama department at 8 p.m. on Oct. 23 through 25 and again Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 in the Main Theater, Canada College, 4200 Farmhill Blvd., Redwood City.

The playwright is Bob Curtis of the Canada English faculty. "West" is his second play produced by the drama department and directed by drama instructor Kurtwood Smith. His first, "Frank," a satirical musical about Frankenstein, played to large audiences in March, 1974.

The story, set in an indeterminate time and place in the West, centers around the conflict between townspeople and the Stubblefiled Gang, a group of outlaws who want the town to grant them water and range privileges.

Cast members by city are: Redwood City — Tom Nye, Brad Monnette, Jim Sharp, Stan Silveria, Martin Mooney, Bruce Kerans, Nick Quida; San Mateo — Kevin Blackston, Patty Brennan, Connie Cramer, Rich Silva; Menlo Park — Ron Clark; Atherton — Gavin Troster; Portola Valley — Tom Duzanica, Hillsborough — Alexis Cohn, Miki Outland; Belmont — Jody VanBuskirk, Kim Perego.

Set and lights director is Martin Lepisto, costumes are handled by Sally Shatford and Julie Connelly is choreographer.

Samuel Chandler

"Television is sick!" On this fact the observers who diagnose the media agree, but there is no accord on what is the nature of the malady.

Many agree with a "National Review" article that states that Television is "wallowing in both brutality and pornographic explicitness." The voice of these critics has become so loud it has prompted the industry to set aside the hours from 7-9 p.m. as family time. During these hours programs are purged of sex and violence. The networks describe such shows as "seemly," "fitting" and "decent."

Already, although the season is scarcely three months old, critics are charging that such shows are "starry eyed and dull." Some of these critics echo words written by Gerhart Niemeyer for "National Review" — ". . . during the long centuries in which children have been reared on fairy tales and stories replete with chopped-off heads and cruel punishments (just think of Hansel pushing the witch into the flames), nobody felt it necessary to keep fairy tales from children on account of such violent incidents."

Niemeyer, however, sees that Television's ailments stem from the direction of the violence. To illustrate he points out that while such classics as Macbeth and Hamlet are full of dark bloody deeds, the intent of the author is to portray "the human soul stretched between the passions of nature and its intuitions of goodness, so that violence and sex are incidental and derive their meaning from the struggles, strengths and weaknesses of character."

Niemeyer charges that today's television drama has "torn off this mantle of meaning. Sex and violence are presented, as it were, in moral nakedness." Hence, television drama, as a writer in "Newsweek" states, has no purpose other than to toss to a starved audience action that "they will lap up . . . even warmed over hamburger."

A different diagnosis of Television's troubles is found in an article by Shirley de Leon that was written to parents and published in "Parents Magazine." She states: "TV's mediocrity and violence are depressing because of the medium's potential to be used creatively." She calls for more bilingual series that could be beamed at both children and adults. She believes that television could present animated folktales drawn from many lands; that it should present programs that utilize literature and history and crafts and workshops that will teach children, for instance, how to make dolls from dried fruits and puppets from paper bags.

Ms. de Leon writes that television programming will not be healthy and beautiful until it becomes "creative, educational and thoroughly enjoyable." To bring about the cure she writes, "Responsive television in a family requires parental awareness of what the children are watching. It involves turning off destructive programs and protesting to their sponsors and the networks."

Still another diagnosis of the diseases that beset television comes from the observers, many of them television stars, who charge that television is sick with "pap." They mean that too many programs are soft and pulpy. They write that such programs are boiled and softened goo and that they are, in spite of the violence, "simple and moralistic, suitable only for the minds of infants." As one writer states, "television fails to be intellectually stimulating."

In reviewing last year's "Apple's Way," a critic characterizes television with such statements as, "the land of the down home folks" and "the McDonald's hamburger chorus" and "graffiti's favorite sons," and "happy days will come again." Such critics reveal that teams of writers are charged to create "anything that any audience will laugh at."

Nearly all critics of television join Dr. Randall P. Harrison who wrote for an issue of "Parents Magazine:" What can concerned parents do?"

"First, it helps to be well informed . . . then, there are things you can do locally. Television stations make choices among the syndicated shows they buy. In some communities, groups have been urging stations to expand the variety of programs available, rather than add to the level of violence already available nationally."

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks. We often think, as we read the newspapers and watch the news on Television, that we are living in a topsy-turvy world.

Day in and day out we read of happenings that we thought could never happen. Following this topsy-turvy line along, I'd like to suggest baking a casserole that is turned upside-down to serve. And you prepare it the day before you plan to serve it.

HAMBURGER UPSIDE-DOWN CASSEROLE

2½ cups elbow macaroni (about ¾ pound) uncooked
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup minced onion
1 clove minced garlic
1 pound ground meat
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon oregano
1 8-ounce package cheddar cheese (grated or cubed small)
3 eggs, beaten
three fourths cup milk

THE DAY BEFORE: Cook the two and one half cups macaroni in salted water until just tender and drain.

Meanwhile, heat the three tablespoons butter in large skillet and saute the half cup minced onion and one clove minced garlic until tender, add the one pound ground meat and brown.

Stir in the eight ounces tomato sauce, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon each pepper and oregano. Spread meat mixture in bottom of a 2-quart casserole.

Toss the drained macaroni with the eight ounces of either grated or cubed cheese and pack down on top of the meat mixture.

Combine the three beaten eggs with the three-fourths cup milk and pour over top of the macaroni.

Cover dish with foil and refrigerate until next day.

About two hours before serving remove the casserole from the refrigerator and allow to stand about 15 minutes. Heat the oven to 350-degrees.

Bake casserole in 350-degree oven for about 1½ hours or until macaroni is golden and the custard is set. When done, remove from oven and allow to stand about 10 minutes.

Then run a spatula around the edges and carefully unmold on large serving dish.

Serves 6.

GIRL SCOUTING

JUNIOR Girl Scouts may swim Thursday evening, from 7 to 9 p.m. by bringing green Girl Scout permission slips to the Jefferson High School pool.

One adult pool watcher must accompany each eight Scouts.

Also tomorrow, leadership follow-up training is scheduled from 9:30 a.m.-noon, place to be announced by Daly City training coordinator Mrs. Virginia Rusting.

LEADERS WHO have girls record sheets of previous Scouts are asked to send them to Daly City's Girl Scout record keeper Mrs. Bunne Pardini, 49 Oakmont, Daly City. Any Senior Girl Scout may receive her own record sheet from Mrs. Pardini by calling her at home, 755-8965.

A Girl Scout's record sheet is her own possession and must be kept up to date by her troop.

It is a primary information source for applying for wider opportunities.

Mrs. Pardini attempts to coordinate the record sheets of girls between troops.

"THE GRAPEVINE," Publication of the Broadmoor Property Owners Association, was recently hand delivered by Colma Cadette Troop 1620, led by Mrs. Carole Ann Scott.

Mesdames Kathy Cinti, Chiquita Fratto, Diane Holder, Mary Ann Revelo and Carol Whelan organized the car pools for their daughters' efficient delivery of the local paper.

Girls participating included Dawne Holder, Michylle LaPedis, Terri Cinti, Sharon Scott, Patricia Revelo, Kathy Bolton, Kathy Hansel, Lorene Fratto, Sandy and Cheri Freitas, Babette Evans, Lisa Sanchez, Jackie Bender, Mary and Cindy Lewkowitz, Julie Savignano, Roxanne Whelan, Debbie Burke and Melinda Morris.

Mapping of the Broadmoor area by the mothers was a real challenge according to troop leader Mrs. Scott.

Proceeds of the project will be used for troop activities and "Share of Belonging" responsibilities.

A WEEKEND with Kit, Katherine (Kit) Hammett was enjoyed recently by Daly City area adult Scouts Trish Sullivan, and Joan and Jane Stewart as they studied with the popular camping authority author.

A BROWNIE investiture and rededication ceremony was on the agenda recently for Brownie Troop 2059 which meets in Vista Mar's multi-use room.

Keiko Akashi, Minako Tshihasa, Annette Nip, Christine Courtney, Holly Figone, Gina Nissinoff, Debbie Smith, Kristen Siebert, Bernice Mauricio, Heather Fern and Joan Twohey invited their families for this special day.

They held a small celebration party after their ceremonies.

Recently they "said a fond farewell" to retiring leader Mrs. Dale O'Conner, according to present leader Cheryl Figone, by presenting Mrs. O'Conner with a plant to show they will miss her.

Wildlife Review Topic

Doug Morris, director of wildlife activities of the San Mateo County Humane Society, and Anne Velez, education coordinator, will present "Wildlife of San Mateo County" as the subject of the coming book review of The Friends of the Daly City Library, to be held in the Coral Room of the Westlake Library, at 10 a.m., Thursday.

Morris built from scratch his department, which includes a wildlife rescue team. Wildlife in need of help are cared for at the society's shelter and released, if possible, to their natural habitat. Igor, a turkey vulture who has a broken wing, is housed at present in a large cage.

The society's veterinarians discovered his wing was broken in such a manner he will never be able to exist again in the wilds, and it is hoped he will eventually have a large enclosre in which to live.

An over-foot long, dark grey South American Lizard, found abandoned in a vacant apartment, resides temporarily in Mrs. Velez's office. He could never exist in this climate in the outdoors.

HUKILAU PARTY

Mrs. Canobbio's first grade class at Daniel Webster School has been studying the Hawaiian Islands. On Oct. 13, the class held a Hukilau Party for their parents and other guests. The children performed Hawaiian songs and dances. Each child received a certificate of graduation from the Daniel Webster Hukilau Hula class. The party ended with Hawaiian refreshments.

Hillside Project: Cities Together?

Are Daly City, South San Francisco and Colma together on plans to widen Hillside Boulevard in the North County from a two-lane to a four-land road?

That question was raised by Supervisor John Ward Tuesday as the Board of Supervisors directed the county engineer to proceed with a four-block portion of the road between Market and Hoffman streets, after hearing some protests from landowners.

The road will become an important peripheral access route if development plans for San Bruno Mountain are approved in the near future.

The board action sets into motion preparation of final plans and acquisition of right of way.

A second action by board members authorizes use of $130,000 for relocation payments to property owners along the route.

Business along Hillside to be relocated include a grocery store, a cocktail bar, two florist shops, a beauty salon, a roofing company, a trucking storage yard and an auto repair shop.

Ten residential units are involved, including eight multi-family units and two single-family residences.

"I assume we have a commitment from Colma and South San Francisco — I want to be sure the board is fully cognizant what the other jurisdictions are going to do about their portions of the road," Ward said.

Vote on the widening project was 4-1 with Supervisor Bacciocco voting against the project.

This delightful tradition, we are happy to report, is being revived at Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco, where all ladies still receive a fresh, complimentary carnation at luncheon and dinner . . . For a real Italian dinner, head the family car in the direction of Rockaway Beach and park doorside at Romano's. This restaurant is more old-country than a singing gondolier. Come snow, rain and ice, this Nevada club is wall-to-wall with customers — and jackpots are the "order of the day." Cap Holds On

By STEVE JOHNSON

Capuchino High's football team spotted Hillsdale a quick first-quarter touchdown Friday, then got that score back nine minutes later.

The two offenses didn't stop moving the ball there, but did stop producing points and Cap held on for an 8-6 Mid-Peninsula League win.

The Mustangs are now 1-1 in the MPL and 3-2 overall. The Knights are 0-2 and 2-3.

The two teams combined for almost 600 yards total offense. They also combined for 12 turnovers, seven by Hillsdale.

The Knights boomed for 34 yards on four rushing plays to paydirt the first time they had possession. Rick Catalano finished the drive with a seven-yard blast off right tackle.

Cap went 34 yards in three plays to its score after a Greg Tafralis fumble recovery. On the second play of the second quarter, quarterback Kris Martinsen connected with tight end Pete Davos on a 23-yard TD pass.

Martinsen went over on a left option run for the two-point conversion that stood up for the victory.

Both squads spent the rest of the afternoon deep in frustration.

Three times in the second quarter, Capuchino gave up the ball in its own territory (loss of down, fumble and interception). Hillsdale's best ensuing penetration was to the seven, where a clipping penalty gummed up the threat.

In the third period, after Cap held on downs at its 21, Mustang halfback Tim Eliades zipped 73 yards on a draw play to the Knight seven. Hillsdale then held on downs.

Hillsdale's last chance was lost when Cap linebacker Paul Wapenski fell on a fumble at his 29. The Knights got the ball back on their 22 for a couple of Terry Batchelder desperation passes, one of those ending up as safety Mike Morando's third interception of the contest.

Eliades rushed for 166 yards on 19 carries. Davos, Cap's main receiver with standout Russ Slotnick out with a hip pointer, had four catches for 59 yards. Hillsdale's Ron Walton had six for 83.

An Image Untarnished As CSM Gridders Lose To West Valley '11'

West Valley College's football team came to College of San Mateo Saturday with a stout defensive reputation. The Vikings left College Heights with that image untarnished.

West Valley held a talented Bulldog offensive unit, which had been averaging 345 yards per game, to a meager 110 yards total offense. The Vikings' fine effort resulted in a 10-0 victory for the visitors over a previously undefeated CSM squad.

WVC is now back in the midst of the Golden Gate Conference race with a 3-1-0 record. CSM (2-1-1) is in a slightly less-enviable position because of the tie they played with Diablo Valley. Conceivably, that game could keep the Bulldogs from a possible GGC title, depending on how things develop within the conference.

Randy Gomez, the rifle-armed freshman quarterback who entered the contest as the state's leading passer, was knocked out of this game on the second-to-last play of the half. The Bulldog QB was forced out of the pocket and hit simultaneously by two West Valley defenders. Gomez sustained pulled hip muscles and was forced to watch the remainder of the game from the sidelines.

Actually, it didn't seem to matter to West Valley who CSM had at quarterback. Gomez managed only four completions in ten attempts for 32 yards. Replacement John Solomon threw 17 times, completing four, for 37 yards.

Le Pacini

Gertrude Stein once said of Oakland:
before the Raiders
and the A's
and the Warriors
and the Seals
that That there was no
there there
If Gertrude were still here here
she might now be asking of the Seals
and the Warriors
and the A's
where where?

Well, what the hell, aren't there some days when YOU feel poetic?

What the above aludes to, of course (for those of you with no literary bent), is that even as we sit here at this very typewriter, only the Raiders seem absolutely secure in Oakland.

If that Yerba Buena Center sports arena ever gets built in San Franciscio, the Seals are definitely ticketed out of Oakland.

And although it may take as long as five years, chances are good that the Warriors will follow, because Franklin Mieuli not only left Rick Barry and a lot of money in San Francisco, but his heart as well.

The Warrior front office will remind you that they have signed a 10-year letter of intent to play at the Oakland Arena, with a clause that the agreement can be abrogated in five years. But a letter of intent is not an iron-clad contract.

And then, of course, there is that continuing question: can an ex-poor coal miner who got rich in the insurance business in a thriving metropolis find happiness in a ghost town out west?

C.C. Johnson Spink, editor and publisher of the prestigious "Sporting News," named Oakland as one of baseball's five ailing teams in a recent article. The other four were, of course, the Giants, and then the White Sox, the Twins and the Braves. Only the Braves, he noted, have not been mentioned in relocation talk.

Spink reminded that Jerome Holtzman, a fine Chicago columnist and Sporting News correspondent, who is "remarkably accurate" on his "inside" stories, was the first reporter to bring forth the theory that the White Sox would move to Seattle, to get that threatened anti-trust suit off baseball's back, and that Oakland would then move to Chicago, where Charley Finley's insurance offices are located, and where he lives with his barbeque pit. We reported this possibility, thanks to Holtzman, a couple of months ago.

Spink explains that Finley, despite the fact that he has made profits every year the club has been in Oakland and set an Oakland attendance record this past season, would be glad to move to Chicago, where he could conceivably draw two million without even winning a pennant. And two million is always better than one million.

There is also the usual discussion about where the Giants might move, like Toronto, but Spink says that the "Sporting News" has information that the Giants are determined to stay in San Francisco, especially if Horace Stoneham can move some valuable property he owns in Minnesota which is worth, supposedly, $2,500,000.

Spink admits, quite rightly, that with no competition from Oakland and with the apparently fine young club the Giants have coming up, they could once again become a gate attraction.

In a "sporting News" editorial written in early June, Spink had noted that, "There'll be a lot of maneuvering and dickering in the next few months, but one prediction seems safe: that this is the last season in which the San Francisco Bay Area will have two baseball teams."

If one is to take seriously both of Spink's writings, the editorial in June and the recent article, one gathers that Spink suspects that the A's will move and that the Giants will stay and we agree.

A proper footnote here might be that the Giants will not only stay, but will stay under the aegis of Stoneham. What many of the experts seems to be forgetting is that the $15-$17 million Horace seems to be asking (depending on what newspaper estimates you believe) is a lot of money, and not many people have that kind of scratch to throw around in today's economy. It doesn't grow on trees, or even in Astroturf.

AND FOR A CHANGE of pace, consider the following from an eccentric reader who signs his frequent letters, "C. Ummidias Quadratus":

"A vision came to me in the night not so long ago and I have conjured up the following . . . a wrestling team to be called 'The Killer and the Coroner.' The killer, preferably a huge fellow, and masked, would 'murder' his opponents. As they lay there on the mat, apparently 'dead,' the coroner would rush into the ring to perform an 'autopsy.' He would be clothed in surgical garb, of course, and would lay out his instruments beside the 'corpse' preparatory to the operation. The 'corpse' wouldn't be dead at all, of course, and would 'come to life' just as the coroner was preparing to make an abdominal incision. A melee would ensue, and the coroner and the killer, it goes without saying, would get their comeuppances. A sure-fire hit."

LOCAL NOTE: San Francisco State has one of the country's top small college kickers in senior Rick Faulk, a 6-4, 190-pounder who prepped at Berkeley High and transferred to state last year from Laney College.

Faulk made the all Far Western Conference team as a kicker last year when he led the FWC in punting with 41.0 average, which was good for third place nationally among Division III punters; booted the year's longest FWC punt (66 yards), and tied the FWC mark for longest field goal with a 55-yarder. He also tied the established S.F. State mark for most field goals in a game — three against Oregon Education, which included that 55 record breaker.

Faulk's 41-yard average per punt rates as the second best season average in Gator history, tied with Don Miller, who averaged 41 in 1972, and just behind the 41.5 mark set by George Moorehouse in 1963.

TAG ENDS — We hope that sometime soon somebody in the "media" will give the San Jose State University football team credit for being totally underrated rather than just surprising.

We never knew the "sophomore jinx" existed in pro football (we thought baseball had the corner on that market) until Wilbur Jackson's stumbling, fumbling performance with the 49ers this season.

You may remember that a couple of months ago in this space we theorized that Jim Barr, who had called Wes Westrum gutless, had had a rather disappointing season, and who is also a player representative, seemed ripe to trade for that hard-hitting third baseman the Giants need so desperately; especially in light of the way the rookie hurlers had performed.

During the World Series week, Jerry Donovan, who generally acts as the Giants' general manager, said in an interview that the Giants are willing to give up Barr for a third baseman.

North Peninsula Football

Warriors Come Closer to Crown

By JERRY LITTRELL

If South San Francisco High continues to get as much help as it has so far, the Warriors may be only days away from wrapping up the 1976 North Peninsula League football championship.

Another serious would-be contender fell by the wayside Friday as the also-rans continued to knock each other off. And it now appears that the Warriors (3-0) may face their final serious threat in two weeks at Terra Nova (2-1).

The Warriors continued toward their second straight conference title with a 21-0 win over Oceana, while Terra Nova had to stage a last-minute rally to squeeze out a 14-13 win over Westmoor.

In other NPL action Half Moon Bay may have knocked Serramonte completely out of any title hopes with a 23-6 victory while El Camino got by Jefferson 14-9.

SSF 21, Oceana 0

South City's defense came up with its first shutout of the year and fullback Bob Luster continued his record-setting touchdown pace as the Warriors won their sixth straight 1976 encounter.

Luster scored his 13th and 14th TDs of the season on runs of one and two yards. Tailback Tali Ena added a three-yarder. South City stopped the Shark running game at just 43 yards, while 10 Warrior backs split 193.

Terra Nova 14, Westmoor 13

Westmoor coach Pete Matisi pulled every trick imaginable and the Rams played their best game of the year, but Terra Nova still managed to stay within striking distance of the Warriors.

It was obvious from the start this was not a typical head-to-head NPL bashing. Westmoor intercepted its own opening kickoff on a designed play and threw 13 times in the first 15 plays.

The only score produced in the first half was a 60-yard pass from quarterback Ken DeAlba to flanker Marcel Crossland. Then in the third period George Easley recovered a Dave Matas fumble. Westmoor ran three plays, punted and recovered the muffed catch. Ram halfback Rick Wyatt threw 12 yards to Rich Zapata on an option to make it 13-0.

Terra Nova ground out its attack mainly through Matas' runs until senior halfback scored from the two just into the fourth period. A blocked punt set up the winning touchdown, as Terra Nova's Daryl Fazzio passed 26 yards to wide-open Mark Johnson with 1:04 left.

Half Moon Bay 23, Serramonte 6

Quarterback Grant Campbell, not even in the Cougar plans two months ago, passed for one touchdown, kicked a 25-yard field goal and added two extra point boots to lead Half Moon Bay.

Halfback Ted Cook romped 73 yards on a sweep in the first quarter for the Cougars to start the 23-point first half splurge. Campbell added his field goal, and Doug Bray took a five-yard scoring flip from Campbell. Then 5-2, 160-pound defensive end Don Fuller intercepted the first of two passes and ran 53 yards for the final HMB score.

HMB controlled the tempo throughout and Regent fullback Skip Campbell could only get nine carries for 78 yards. Cougar linebacker Tom Hopkins led the defense by getting in on 18 tackles.

El Camino 14, Jefferson 9

A pass interception return by Jim Nishiada in the second period accounted for the winning touchdown as El Camino's defense stiffened in the last three quarters.

Vic Cariola's 85-yard opening kickoff return gave Camino a brief 6-0 lead before Ed Mixco ran in from the seven for the Indians, and Tony Lazarin blocked an attempted Camino punt out of the end zone to make it 9-6 Jeff in the first period.

Dons Beat Crestmoor

By CHRISTOPHER STAVE

Aragon High quarterback Leo Gradinger discovered to his intense satisfaction Friday what a difference a week makes.

Last week he'd been dumped tail-first in the mud seven times attempting to pass in a 0-0 tie with Mills.

But Friday the protection held up, the receivers broke clear and Gradinger completed 10 of 15 passes for 151 yards and three touchdowns as the unbeaten Dons handed Crestmoor its first loss, 27-14.

Aragon is now 1-0-1 in Mid-Peninsula League play, 3-0-2 overall. Crestmoor is 1-1 and 4-1.

The Falcons opened strong, controlling the action on the ground throughout the first half — but because of miscues Aragon jumped out to a 14-0 lead.

Three fumbles cost Crestmoor the lead and perhaps the game. The first came on an apparent touchdown play — a Falcon back fumbled across the goal line into the post, and Aragon took over on a touchback.

After each of two succeeding Crestmoor fumbles, Gradinger wound up and drew blood, hitting Wayne Bergland for a 16-yard score and Duane Yamauchi on a floating 33-yard bomb.

Crestmoor, which was rolling up yardage on the ground and picking up 11 first-half first downs, rallied with a 56-yard drive, capped by John Maxoutopoulis' two-yard run. Later just before the half half ended, Falcon quarterback Larry Nivilhon plunged a yard to finish a 49-yard march and tie the score 14-14.

Both Navilhon and defensive end Larry Timko were held out of the game early in the first quarter. Defensive lineman Craig Schoene, the Falcs' top lineman, was out with a sprained ankle.

After a scoreless third quarter, Aragon opened the fourth with another drive sparked by short passes and Crestmoor penalties. Gradinger found Yamauchi wide open for a three-yard scoring flip.

Crestmoor's next drive bogged down after five plays and Aragon, which had not exactly played a ball control game, proceeded to eat up all but 41 seconds of the 6:20 remaining. The key plays were short Gradinger passes to Dan Swanson, who twice broke tackles for significant gains. With 0:41 left, Pete Dewes scampered 16 yards untouched around left end for an insurance score.

Dewes was the game's leading rusher with 53 yards in seven carries. Yamauchi, one of the best receivers in the County, had caught just one pass last week, but Friday hauled in four for 72 yards and two scores.

Navilhon completed five of seven passes for 73 yards.

Westlake Junior Rolls 298 Game

Jeff Law, 17-year-old Westlake junior bowler, rolled a 298 game in the Kings and Queens Scratch league Saturday morning. After 11 strikes, he left the 4-7 pins on the 12th ball.

Jeff preceded the big game with games of 174 and 192 for a series of 664.

The 298 was Jeff's highest game ever in six years of bowling, his previous high having been a 258.

He also has a three-game series of 715 to his credit, which was rolled in the C. T. B. C. (formerly known as Smallcomb) tournament at Rheem Valley Bowl this summer. Jeff is presently competing in the S. F. Bay Area "900" Masters traveling league for the first time.

In the same league, Tony Bitanga rolled a fine 720 series on games of 204-259-257, and Tom Lopez shot his first 700 ever, a 701 series on games of 211-243-248.

Veteran local professional Dick Agee rolled the highest of the young season in the Les Barrett Classic.

Agee combined games of 260, 243 and 255 for series of 758, but this was merely a follow-up to his achievements of the week before.

At Castle Lanes in the Ken Bailer Classic, Agee had scored a perfect 300 game and 801 series, but even this pales when compared to what he did in the Les Barrett Classic championship rolloffs last season.

Agee rolled a 300 and an 836 series, which was to rank as one of the top scores in the nation last season.

Pumpkin Festival Jammed

The year's largest crush of traffic in Half Moon Bay went without incident as the fifth annual Half Moon Bay Art and Pumpkin Festival drew its expected full house.

Half Moon Bay police estimated the Saturday and Sunday visitor total at 60,000, the same as 1974, with the usual traffic backups on the two two-lane highways leading into the mid-Coastside city of 5,400.

But with the traffic snarled and slow-moving there wasn't one accident reported within the city over the weekend, Sgt. Rick Alves said today.

"Traffic seemed faster to me this year," Alves commented. He surmised that "Many people have been to the festival before and have learned to get here earlier and leave earlier. They're not all trying to come at 11 a.m. and go home at 5 p.m." He added that extra parking areas added this year probably helped traffic circulation.

But traffic still backed up on Highway 92, from Half Moon Bay to Highway 280. Alves said it was taking cars in peak periods three hours to span that distance of about five miles.

It was reported that county supervisors James V. Fitzgerald and William H. Royer were among the thousands caught in the slow-moving parade of cars in winding San Mateo Road over the weekend.

Local police were assisted as usual by sheriff's deputies and highway patrolmen.

GUESTS OF HONOR AT THE PUMPKIN FESTIVAL BANQUET

Bloated contestants, interested spectators and messy faces and hands were part of the action at the pumpkin pie eating contest Saturday at the annual Half Moon Bay Art and Pumpkin Festival. The contest, at the IDES grounds, was divided into categories for younger children such as these and for older children and adults and was one of several attractions which helped fill the Coastside city over the weekend.

Two Porno Petitions Are Filed

Two petitions signed by San Mateo County residents who oppose the opening of a pornographic moviehouse in San Bruno were presented to the San Bruno city clerk's office Tuesday afternoon.

Deputy City Clerk Lee Bigongiari reported that the two petitions contained a total of 2,397 signatures.

One petition, circulated by Aurora Tomadoni, branch manager of Citizens Saving and Loan Association on San Mateo Avenue, contained 2,272 names.

Those that signed the petition "strongly disapproved of the presence of any theater showing pornographic films in or near our community (San Bruno)."

The other petition was circulated by Ann M. Romaine of Millbrae and contained 125 names of persons from Millbrae, Foster City, Burlingame, Daly City, South San Francisco and Pacifica. Those that signed the petition also opposed the opening of a pornographic theater in San Bruno.

It was reported last July that the Mitchell Brothers, San Francisco producers of hardcore pornography, had signed a lease with United Artists to open the El Camino Theater in downtown San Bruno to show its blue movies.

United Artists owns the El Camino Theater located on San Mateo Avenue. The theater has been closed for about 20 months.

The Mitchell Brothers have been unable to open the theater, because the San Bruno Building Department will not issue United a permit to renovate the building to bring it up to code standards.

San Bruno City Atty. Joe Galligan has ruled that the theater cannot open, because it is a non-conforming use. According to city code, all businesses on San Mateo Avenue must be of a retail nature.

Bill Boyer, a spokesman for the Mitchell Brothers, has indicated the brothers have not given up attempting to open the theater.

Citizen Panel Mulled

The president of the North San Mateo County Taxpayers Association suggests the San Bruno City Council appoint a citizens' committee to examine city departments and to recommend ways to improve efficiency, while reducing costs.

Not all councilmen think it's a good idea.

Taxpayers association president Les Kelting made the suggestion at the close of last week's council meeting.

He told the council the city "should follow in the footsteps of the county" and appoint a committee to check thoroughly the operation of each city department to determine how taxpayers' money could be saved.

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors last month formed a committee, The Citizens Task Force on County Government Operations. The 15 members of the task force, representing a broad spectrum of the county, will examine all county departments and look for ways to cut costs.

The committee will interview rank-and-file employes and department heads, review each department's budget, then recommend procedures for improving efficiency.

Creation of the county committee was an outgrowth of a suggestion for public participation in preparing the budget made during budget hearings last July.

Kelting said he believes that if this kind of committee can be established at the county level, it also can be established at the city level.

"Cities tend to operate today the same way they operated 20 years ago," Kelting said. "I believe a citizens' committee could recommend changes in traditional operations and save the city some money.

"Corrections have got to be made in the operation of the city with the aim of cutting the cost of government, and a citizens' committee could do this best. Administrators are so close to the operation they tend to see the forest and not the trees." Kelting added.

Kelting said a permanent committee made up of, at least, a business management consultant, an insurance agent, an accountant, an engineer, a lawyer and a "couple of non-professionals" should be established.

He suggested members of the committee serve without pay.

San Bruno Mayor John Barnard said Wednesday, he thinks Kelting has a good idea, but he balked at the suggestion of a permanent committee and one comprised only of volunteers.

"Perhaps we are spending too much money on government," said Barnard. "I think a committee may be the best group to advise us (the council) on how we can cut costs."

Barnard said he might favor hiring "experts" to check city operations, and added he believed if a committee was formed it should not be a permanent one.

"The committee should be a one-shot deal," the mayor said. "If it proved to be beneficial the first time around, we could always call it back if we needed it."

Councilman Dick Griffith said he was "very much in favor" of establishing a committee.

"There is no tendency to account for costs of government," Griffith said. "It tends to get away from you if there is no watchdog."

Griffith said a permanent committee should be formed to conduct ongoing evaluations of the operation of city departments.

He said the committee should evaluate all city departments but especially should look at employes' use of city vehicles, which he claims are being sued for other than city business.

The councilman also said the committee should make a comparison of fringe benefits given executives in private enterprise and benefits given top city officials.

"Perhaps it can be found we can save money by cutting some of the fringe benefits given city government executives," Griffith said.

Council members Gary Mondfrans and Margaret Kozkowski noted they are hesitant to form a citizens committee. Both agreed economizing could be done in each department by each department head.

"I'm more inclined to think that department heads could solicit opinions on how to economize and then do the economizing themselves," Mondfrans said.

"The city manager could get input from other city managers on how they have improved efficiency," he said.

Commented Councilwoman Kozkowski, "The problem with establishing a committee is that they are hard to disband. It seems everytime we get a committee it remains permanent.

"I'm not opposed to checking on efficiency; I just don't think a committee is necessary. Our department heads are stable and have developed a good interworking relationship. They can do the economizing," she said.

Councilman Tony Governale could not be reached for comment.

Split of Office Asked by D.A.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson today said that he again will ask the Board of Supervisors to put on next year's ballot a proposition asking voters to split Sorenson's office.

He wants to create a separate office of county counsel, which would deal solely with civil matters.

A ballot measure to split the office was defeated in 1972. Last year, the supervisors refused to put the measure on the ballot because they thought its passing would mean additional costs.

Sorenson reaffirmed today that the division would mean more costs.

He has contended for more than three years that the civil and criminal functions of his office have reached such proportions in size and complexity that "for one department head to keep close touch on prosecution and litigation is just too much."

Sorenson said that he would ask the supervisors, probably before the end of the year, to put the measure on the ballot for, preferably, next June's primary election.

County Addition to Rec Area Questioned

Proposed legislation which would include approximately one-half of San Mateo County's 290,000 acres in the Golden Gate National Recreation Area has elicited the concern of James V. Fitzgerald, chairman of the county Board of Supervisors.

Fitzgerald reported Friday he has been informed that area congressmen have or are preparing legislation which would add more than 141,000 acres of San Mateo County west of Skyline to the recreation area.

"None of the congressmen have discussed this with the board," Fitzgerald said.

The board chairman reported that Congressmen Phillip and John Burton of San Francisco have bills before the legislative drafting service, that Congressman Leo Ryan, D., San Mateo County, has a bill in the draft stage, and that Congressman Paul N. "Pete" McCloskey, R., San Mateo County, has a bill in the discussion-draft stage.

Fitzgerald said he plans to contact the congressmen involved as soon as possible and seek a meeting to discuss the situation.

"There has been a lack of coordination," Fitzgerald asserted. "They don't think of the effect on the local community."

Noting that the area proposed for inclusion in the recreation area comprises virtually all of the area west of Skyline with the exception of existing parks and local communities, the chairman said he is concerned by the effect this will have on taxes.

SSF Gets Third Place In Safety Competition

South San Francisco earned a third place safety award in the annual California Cities Employe Safety Contest.

Lee Davies, president of the League of California Cities, announced the award at the league's annual conference in San Francisco.

The contest is co-sponsored by the league and the State Compensation Insurance Fund.

Cities are divided into groups according to number of employes. South San Francisco earned its award by having the third lowest incident rate of injuries resulting in lost workdays among cities in Group XI (501-1,000 employes).

More than 200 cities competed in this year's contest.

Harry Henzi, public agency services officer of the State Fund, presented the awards and pointed out that successful accident prevention programs benefit all — the employes, city management, and taxpayers.

The winners were congratulated for their achievement, and all California cities were urged to expand their safety program activities to reduce the number of on-the-job injuries sustained by the city employes.

Utility Honors Employes

A group of 468 employes of Pacific Gas and Electric will be inducted into the company's exclusive Quarter Century Club this year, including 33 members of the Company's San Francisco Division.

Members of the club are employes who have worked for PG&E for 25 years or more.

The 33 employes of San Francisco Division were honored at a dinner Friday at the Fairmont Hotel said John H. Black, division manager.

"The Quarter Century Club was created in recognition of the importance of the members' ability and long experience for good service to customers," Black said. The club was founded in 1959.

With this year's 468 industees, the PG&E Quarter Century Club will have a membership of 8,643.

Of the total membership, 4,613 members of the PG&E Quarter Century Club are still actively employed by PG&E and provide service to customers throughout Northern and Central California.

The North County inductees are:

Burlingame — Robert Avigliano, Clarence Dempster.

Daly City — Charles Anderson, Lawrence Andres, William Hansen, Walter Rodriguez.

South San Francisco — Robert Azzaro, John Bergin, Paul Lutich, Kimmie Patterson.

Airport Pacts Let

San Francisco International Airport Director William J. Dwyer has announced that the Airports Commission has awarded several construction contracts at San Francisco International Airport.

A contract was awarded for $3,789,165 to Homer J. Olsen, Inc., 2726 Linch Way, Union City to provide the initial modifications to the existing parking garage.

"The work to be completed represents the third phase of a multiphasic project. Subsequent garage projects will follow and will be bid as plans are completed to provide for a continuous construction program for the garage," Dwyer said.

The work includes removing perimeter screens of the existing garage, constructing perimeter and interior shear walls for six levels, including supporting piles, a water recharge system, new concrete railings to roadside perimeter of existing garage and providing structural elements for future contracts.

A contract was awarded for $18,900 to Pat Kennelly Construction, 533 Theresa Drive, South San Francisco, to repair fire hydrant assemblies, correct deficiencies and provide a reliable fire hydrant system at the International Rotunda.

"The existing fire hydrant assemblies do not provide for differential settlement due to soil conditions and are subject to breakage," Dywer said.

A contract for $19,750 went to Power Anderson, Inc., 2271 Charleston Road, Mountain View, to repair drainage outfall facilities at the north end of runways 19L-19R to prevent flooding at the north end of these runways.

A contract for $85,050 was awarded to J. M. Construction Company, 1175 Montgomery Ave., San Bruno, to furnish and install a single canopy over exit cashier booths at the fourth level of the parking garage and economy parking lot, including foundation, steel columns and frames, ribbed steel decks and fascias.

"The canopy at the fourth level exit of the garage covers three booths and is 22' x 48'," Dwyer said, "while the one at the economy parking lot is 28' x 72' and covers four booths."

A weather screen will be built at the fourth level of the parking garage and low clearance signs with support structures will be built at the entrance to the economy parking lots.

Youth in Walkathon

Mohan, the tiger from Marine World/Africa USA, was present to see 9/5 walkers get off to a roaring start in the recent "Miles for Children" walkathon benefiting the March of Dimes.

Participants from San Mateo, Millbrae, Hillsborough, Pacifica, Half Moon Bay, South San Francisco, Belmont and Burlingame gathered at Central Park in San Mateo at 8 a.m. to start the 20-mile walk.

It was a close finish between Paul Linney and Pat Villyard, both eighth grade students at Linda Mar school in Pacifica.

Paul finished the walkathon route first in four hours and 25 minutes.

Pat was right behind him with a time of four hours, 25 and one-half minutes.

Third and fourth place winners were Ken Peterson and Albert Lenci, seventh grade students at Ralston school in Belmont. They finished in four hours and 30 minutes.

Walkers received pledges totaling approximately $17,000 which will be used in the fight against birth defects through March of Dimes funded research, education and patient care programs.

Grand prize winners will receive stereo equipment from Pacific Stereo.

Everyone who completed the walk will attend a performance of the Grand National Rodeo, compliments of the Cow Palace. All walkers received "The Order of the Battered Boot" certificate.

The California National Guard staffed the checkpoints and circled the route picking up tired walkers; which were few.

Registration tables were staffed by Parents Without Partners.

Viennese Ball Notes

Strains of nostalgic Viennese waltzes played by the Peninsula Symphony Auxiliary and modern day music performed by the Jimmy Blass Orchestra filled the Airport Marina Hotel Saturday night for the annual Viennese Ball.

On hand to greet guests at the hotel ballroom were Consul General Emeritis Karl Weber of San Francisco, Mrs. Joyce Ruys of Woodside, ball chairman Mrs. George Lunn and Mr. Lunn of San Carlos, and auxiliary president Mrs. Charles Crotty of Belmont.

Guests also were formally greeted by Peninsula Symphony Association president C. William Friedrichs and Mrs. Friedrichs of Mountain View, Maestro and Mrs. Aaron Sten of San Carlos, and protocol chairman Mrs. Alec Matthews and Mr. Matthews, who served as master of ceremonies.

An interesting innovation at this year's ball was the presentation of the Ballet "Paradox" by Rosene Bena and Sam Weber. The Peninsula Ballet Theatre of San Mateo is the only American company with rights to the "Paradox"; the Royal Ballet of England and Stuttgard of Germany also share the privilege.

"Musical Vienna" was the theme of the 1975 Viennese Ball. To carry out the theme, hand crafted figures of musicians were dressed in white velvet trimmed with jewels and red velvet; they were placed on a red velvet platform and decorated the tables. The tables also were adorned with white spider chrysanthemums and ferns arranged in white Grecian bowls.

Each female guest was presented with a lovely crystal dish as a momento of the evening.

Hillsborough guests who shared a table included Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stich (she was invitation chairman for the ball), Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Grotsky, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Soss, Dr. and Mrs. Milton Lozofs, Dr. and Mrs. Edward Persike and Ernest de las Ossa. The latter is former president of the association.

Several San Carlans attended the affair including Mr. and Mrs. August Milich, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Garnsey, Cmdr. and Mrs. A. F. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Brauff and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shinn.

The meeting, which will also host The Franciscan Guild of The Peninsula Symphony Association Auxiliary, will be held at the Hillsborough home of Mrs. Joseph Tedesco. The Franciscan Guild was recently formed with Mrs. George F. Gray of Daly City as chairwoman.

The business part of the meeting will be conducted by Burlingame Guild chairman, Mrs. William Benson.

Mrs. Prugh, a member of The Franciscan Guild, has been receiving brilliant reviews for her role of Rosalinda in Die Fledermause, a presentation of The Lamplighters, San Francisco's Music Theatre.

Today's "Day at the Races," sponsored by the Westlake Catholic Women, should be one of the most outstanding events of its type, ever! The beautiful weather on Sunday was a great incentive for any of those who doubted spending $9 for a ticket when it might be raining on the day.

Now, thanks to a host of last-minute ticket purchases, many members of the parish, their friends and relatives, will be joining in the fun and excitement today at Bay Meadows.

Mrs. John Kachur is the chairman of the event, which is held annually to raise money for the parish projects.

Mrs. John Cunnie and Mrs. Sebastian Passanisi have been in charge of the reservations.

FRANK GALO, president of the Balboa Alumni Association, reminds Bal grads that the Alumni Board will be meeting tomorrow night in the home of Steve Kerwin, 680 Paris Street in San Francisco. Galo notes that the members of the board are anxious to hear suggestions or comments about the school or the alumni role in serving the school. If you went to Balboa High School and feel you have something you want to say please contact Galo who lives on Hanover street, Daly City, or call the alumni secretary, Mrs. Mary Boero, 585-8120.

FRIDAY is the Mary's Help Hospital Guild's meeting day, and a huge turnout is expectd by the president, Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, who is promising "something big" in the way of surprise.

The board will meet at 10:30 a.m., while the members of the tray favor committee are working on holiday favors for patients' trays. The general meeting and luncheon get underway at 12:30 p.m.

THE DALY CITY Rock Hounds took over the War Memorial Building this past weekend and presented a beautiful exhibit of rocks and gem stones.

For those of you who saw the show and have been wondering about how to join the group, the club meets the first Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria area in the War Memorial Building on Mission Street. Visitors are welcome.

MRS. VIRGINIA TIERNEY of the Daly City Friends of the library calls special attention to the fine help given the friends, during the recent book fair, by Daly City Boy Scouts and members of the fire department and the Parks and Recreation Department.

Members of those three groups helped set up and close the fair at the mall of the Westlake Shopping Center.

Among the scouts assisting were Steve Giovannini, Steve Putman, Doug Dovichi, Brian Watson, Dave Richwood, Trippy Slither, Tim Jones, Chris Kanelopoulos, Mike Kanelopoulos, Bill Guzman, Bill Bagnall and Craig Markinson.

Future Scout David Schwarzbach did a fair share, too, Mrs. Tierney said. Richard Bagnall, one of the chief helpers, is an assistant scout master.

WHILE ON THE subject of scouting, how many knew that Halloween was the birthday of Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouting in this country?

Miss Low often remarked that she was glad she was born on a day when children always seem to have such a good time. It seems an appropriate statement from a woman who spent much of her life developing a program in which girls can learn to savor and enjoy living.

Roz Morino, the publicity woman for local Girl Scouts, who sent me that item also is concerned that girls of all ages know that scouting has something to offer no matter how young or how old.

High school girls, especially, don't seem to realize that they can join scouting and find new ways to serve their community. Currently the local Senior Scouts are working with the Salvation Army on the "Hand in Hand" program for Senior Citizens.

"Hand in Hand" encourages older girls to help plan programs and outings for senior citizens and even help them with shopping chores. Senior Scouts meet once every two weeks and their advisor is Mrs. Kathy Calvin.

Street-Widening OKd

Preparation of final plans for the proposed $2.2 million widening of Hillside Boulevard between South San Francisco and Daly City was authorized last week by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

In its action, the board authorized the county engineer's office to work with the Jefferson Elementary School District to attenuate the traffic noise at Colma Elementary School with the county to pay up to $90,000 from road department funds for sound proofing of the school.

Also, the board directed County Engineer S. H. Cantwell Jr. to conduct another survey to determine if property owners along the route favors underground of utilities in conjunction with the widening of the street to four lanes.

Supervisor John M. Ward expressed concern that Colma might rescind the extra-territorial rights it has granted for widening of the street through that town "as has happened in this part of the county."

Ward was referring to the action of the town of Atherton which last rescinded its granting of extra-territorial rights for the proposed Sequoia storm drain project.

The board made its authorization for proceeding with the project contingent on the approval of the town of Colma.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald noted that the board will hold a public hearing after final plans for the widening project are completed.

Animal Officer To Patrol Streets

Daly City has a fulltime animal control officer patrolling its streets to curb increased canine activities that have raised the ire of many citizens throughout the city.

The additional control officer, to be supplied by the Peninsula Humane Society under agreement with Daly City, starts work at 3 p.m.

His job is to seek out stray dogs and cats in the city.

Irate homeowners have demanded more animal controls for the past several months, in the wake of an increased number of stray dogs running loose and befouling lawns, shrubs and sidewalks.

Daly City will purchase a truck to be used by the control officer and also will pay the sum of $9,732 to the Humane Society under terms of a 12-month contract between the two agencies.

Money for the officer and vehicle come from federal revenue sharing funds, it was learned.

MR. AND MRS. BRUNO PEZZULICH
(Linda Reudy)

Reudy-Pezzulich

Friends and relatives of Linda Reudy and Bruno G. Pezzulich gathered recently to witness the couple's marriage at St. Dunstan's Catholic Church in Millbrae.

The Rev. William Albach performed the afternoon rites which were followed by a reception at Brentwood Lodge. After greeting guests, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Las Vegas before establishing a home in San Francisco.

Linda, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reudy of Millbrae, was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a classic gown of white organza styled with a portrait neckline and long fitted sleeves accented with Chantilly lace. Appliques of the same lace adorned her A-line skirt and hemline and her elbow length veil.

Honor attendant for her sister was Charlene Reudy, who set the style of dress for the bridal party in a deep tourquoise Empire gown. Diana Reudy, cousin of the bride, Ottavia Pezzulich, sister of the bridegroom, and Julie Rossi served as the secondary attendants.

Michael Stasko was the best man for the bridegroom.

THE JOHN LEWISES
(Laura Servetti)

Servetti-Lewis

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Burlingame was the setting for the recent marriage of Laura Catherine Servetti and John Emil Lewis.

The Rev. Paulding James officiated at the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Servetti of San Bruno and the son of Mrs. Adele Lewis of San Francisco. A reception followed at the Airport Marina Hotel.

Laura chose a wedding gown with a Gatsby look and carried white roses. She was escorted to the altar by her father.

Linda White of San Bruno, the matron of honor, wore lavender chiffon.

Marcia Brinkley of Pacifica and Joanne Domerofski of San Bruno, the bridesmaids, chose pink chiffon, and Heather Lewis, the flower girl, was frocked in pink chiffon.

Laura is an alumna of Crestmoor High School, and John attended Balboa High School in San Francisco.
